This analysis was prepared by non-partisan legislative staff for the use of legislative members in their deliberations. This analysis is not a part of the legislation nor does it constitute a statement of legislative intent.

The Problem and Pathological Gambling Program (Program) was established in the Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS). The Program provides for the prevention and treatment of problem and pathological gambling, and the training of professionals in the identification and treatment of problem and pathological gambling. When the Program was established, the DSHS was permitted to contract for any services provided under the Program but was not provided with rulemaking authority.

Most of the pathological gambling counseling services provided through the Program are provided by Chemical Dependency Practitioners (CDPs). Most CDPs are certified as Registered Counselors by the Department of Health. In 2008 the Legislature abolished the Registered Counselor credential, effective July 1, 2010, and replaced it with eight new credentials. Certified Registered Counselors are authorized to provide pathological gambling counseling services. None of the eight new credentials authorize credential holders to practice pathological gambling counseling.

The CDPs who currently provide the bulk of the DSHS's pathological gambling counseling could continue their work if they became agency affiliated counselors. An agency affiliated counselor is a person who is engaged in counseling and is currently affiliated with an agency or facility operated, licensed, or certified by Washington.
